Crisis Center is organised by the Social Insurance Board.

Sexual Assault Crisis Centre (SAK)

- You have had sexual intercourse that you did not consent to or could not consent to.
- You have been raped or suspect that you have been raped.
- You have been forced to perform other sexual acts

You are not alone, help is available!
For everyone – regardless of gender or age.

What happened is not your fault.
The perpetrator of the violence is always responsible. You deserve to feel safe, cared for, and respected.

What is sexual violence?

Sexual violence is defined as any sexual act or attempt that occurs without a person's explicit and voluntary consent.
This can include rape, sexual coercion, harassment, unwanted touching, or other forms of sexual abuse.

Only 'yes' means consent

"Yes" is not:

- Silence
- Any item of clothing or style of dress.
- A friendly/flirtatious look
- Drinking alcohol
- "I'm scared to".
- "I don't think I'm in the mood..."
- "I don't want to anymore."
- "Maybe another time?"
- "I'm not really sure."
- "I'd rather not."
- "Probably not."
- "Maybe."
- "I don't know."

Who should use the Sexual Assault Crisis Center and when?

- In case of sexual assault, rape, or the suspicion thereof.
- As soon as possible, up to 7 days after the incident.
- Help is available to everyone, regardless of age or gender.
- Come alone or with a trusted companion.
- Help is available 24 hours a day.
- No referral or referral letter is required.
- Reporting to the police is not mandatory.

What kind of help can you get from Sexual Assault Crisis Center?

- Support and initial counselling;
- Initial medical assistance;
- Examination and collection of evidence;
- Counselling and assistance in preventing pregnancy;

All necessary assistance is provided free of charge at the center as part of crisis assistance. Assistance is provided by specially trained healthcare professionals.

What to do after the incident?

- Try to go to a safe place and contact someone you trust.
- If you need immediate medical attention or have serious injuries, be sure to call 112.
- If possible, do not wash, change clothes, or eat or drink before the doctor has seen you – this will help preserve evidence in case you decide to go to the police later.
- If possible, bring a change of clothes with you.
- If you have already changed your clothes, put the unwashed clothes in a paper bag and take them with you.
- Go to the nearest sexual assault crisis center as soon as possible.

If you or someone close to you has experienced sexual violence in the past.

The effects of sexual violence can last for years after the incident. Victim support services can provide understanding and support on the road to recovery; if necessary, they can also refer you to psychological help or therapy. See contacts: palunabi.ee/et/vota-uhendust
